A BIRTHDAY AND A SCANDAL HEADLINE 1987

Happy Birthday To A 200 Year Old Document Of Freedom

I sit in one spot all day long, watching the children run and play They are laughing and exploring just like they always will. Sometimes they come to speak with me and sit in my lap while I tell them stories of times I've seen. I've seen everything from the signing of the Constitution to the graduation ceremony for the Class of 1987. Yes, shocking as it seems I'm 200 years old and, you guessed it, I'm the Constitution of the United States, celebrating my bi-centennial this year.

When I was young I never dreamed of how many families would live by me. The family next door is battling with a First Amendment right, freedom of the press, their High School is censoring books from the library. Censorship in this country is a touchy issue that may never be resolved.

One thing I predict will happen is that other nations around the world will adopt the American form of government and use me as an example to create their own documents of freedom.

Laws, rules, and rights in the United States will continue to change, but I will, as I have for the past 200 years continue to grow and adapt to those changes. And hopefully I will continue to serve the American people and help to preserve and protect the rights they have grown to cherish over these past two centuries.

Constitutional Facts

-The Constitution's birthday is this year (1987).

THE IRAN-CONTRA AFFAIR SHOCKS THE ENTIRE NATION

Confusion Reigns Throughout Hearings

"When he (Edwin Meese) was questioned he responded that he didn't know, couldn't remember, didn't recall, 340 times."
-Lesley Stahl
CBS National Affairs
Correspondent

Lt. Col. "Olly" North

The Congressional investigations began at the beginning of 1987. Questions were asked, accusations were thrown, and many people were blamed. Confusion quickly spread throughout the nation as more and more government names were brought into the Iran-Contra scandal. Congress had prohibited government aid to the Contras in Nicaragua but officials violated this Congresional act. Among the names associated with this affair were Lt. Col. Oliver North, Vice Admiral John Poindexter, Robert McFarlane, Edwin Meese, CIA Director William Casey, Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard Secord, Iranian American Businessman Albert Hakim, Fawn Hall and President Reagan.

In order to raise money to aid the Contras, arms were sold to Iran. There was also hope that Iran would release some American hostages, but they did not. This affair was exposed accidentally by a foreign country. The people of the United States were shocked by the news and the fact that they had to find out from someone other than their own President.

The hearings were televised on all Networks as well as the Cable News Network and dragged on for almost three months. Testimony was heard from nearly 30 witnesses.

In the end, there were no grounds on which to indict Reagan because there was no actual proof of him knowing about the diversion of funds. However, many feel that he should have known and that his prestige has been damaged. Lt. Col Oliver North is looked upon as someone who did as his bosses said despite the fact that what he did was against the law. The final report has put most of the blame on President Reagan.

EPIC STAFF TRIES NEW CONCEPT

The AHS yearbook staff has decided to try something new this year — a mini-magazine. The mini-magazine or Mini-Epic as this book's is called, is currently a popular idea in yearbook production. It enables the staff to deal with a variety of topics outside of the "usual."

The "usual" of course, is still included along with feature articles, news current to the year and student favorites and surveys.

Spot color or second color has also been used on eight of this years pages. The 87-88 staff hope you like the Mini-Epic and the second color.

POLITICIANS SCRUTINIZED?

It used to be that one could find articles on the love life of a presidential candidate only in such dubious tabloids as the National Enquirer, now days it is not unusual to find such news as the lead story of such prestigious papers as the New York Times and the Washington Post.

One may wonder if something akin to the Salem Witch trials is taking place or if the private life of a candidate is a gauge as to how he might operate a public office.

Governors, Senators and presidential candidates are more and more being asked quesitons about their private lives, including such things as "Have you ever smoked pot?" (Many legislators answered yes to this question.) Should we allow such loose morals or have we as a society reflected our morals by the candidates we choose? This question can only be answered by the eventual outcome of this years presidential election.

BLACK TUESDAY REPEATED ON A MONDAY?

On the week of October 12th thru the 16th the New York stock exchange made a record fall. On Friday, the 16th, the Dow Jones fell 108.36 which brought the week's total losses to 235 points. However, these losses were minor in comparison to what was about to happen when the New York stock exchange opened again on Monday, October 19, 1987, at 8:00 am CDT. This day was to be Black Tuesday repeated on a Monday. Black Tuesday occured on October 28, 1929 when the market went down 12.8 percent, 38 points. By 3:00 pm CDT on Monday, the Dow Jones Industrial Average had fallen 508 points, 22.6 percent. This was the largest one-day point drop for the Dow Jones, almost five times the record set just two days before. Finally, at the end of the day the Dow Jones Closed at 178.74.

"It was like trying to catch a falling knife."

It was estimated that there were 604.4 million shares traded on Monday which virtually doubled Friday's record of 338.48 million shares. Losing stocks outnumbered gaining stocks nearly 50 to 1. U.S. securities were stripped of approximately $500 billion from the market value. For Manhattan traders, the line of the week was, "It was like trying to catch a falling knife."

A Unique Look At Hamlet

On November 18, the Advanced Senior English and Theater classes took a field trip to the University of Kansas in Lawrence to see the famous Shakespearian play, Hamlet. This was the first year to do this and many students said they were excited about the trip.

When the students arrived they took a look at what happens behind the scenes and had a chance to ask many of the actors questions about their characters in the play. The director of the play also gave an insight as to why the stage was draped only in gray satin and how they went about making the play. A feeling of timelessness was created by the use of costumes from different time periods. Changing the appearance of Hamlet's costume helped show and to metaphorically create his emotions in different scenes.

When asked about the play, Mrs. Joyner said, "The K.U. Hamlet concentrated on a timeless world which shares many elements with many periods to create a theatrical metaphor transcending any particular locale."

THE FUTURE IS NOW!

How would you like to drive to school in your brand new hovercraft, driving up and over the busses that always seem to drive five to ten miles under the speed limit? Or come to school and sit in mid-air while your teacher lectures from the hovering podium at the front of the class?

Sounds impossible, doesn't it. It's not. Due to a new scientific breakthrough initiated by Alex Muller and George Bedmorz of the IBM Zurich research center this science fiction is rapidly becoming science fact.

These things are possible now due to superconductors. The first superconductor was discovered by a Dutch physicist H. Kamerlingh Onnes in 1911 when he cooled down a sample of liquid mercury while measuring its electrical resistance. The resistance of the metal dropped with the falling temperature until, at about 40 above absolute zero, the mercury lost every bit of resistance and became a super conductor.

Of course, this had no real use since it would only work at that very low temperature and not at, say, room temperature.

After 75 years, no one had gotten any closer to making a super conductor that would work at such high temperatures. It seemed mother nature was not that nice of a lady. Now, it seems mother nature was not only nice, but was congenial because superconductors are so easy to make that they can be made in a high school chemistry lab.

The applications of super-conductors and the ease in which they're made will revolutionize the world as we know it. Super conducting power lines could save millions of dollars in electrical power that is now being lost due to resistance. Trains would float on top of the fields between cities at speeds of 300 miles per hour. Super conductors could make computers faster and smaller. The applications are as limitless as the imagination.

EXPLORING EUROPE!

Ross Devore, a junior, went on a trip to Europe with his father this past summer. They toured Sweden, London, and Germany. Ross also had the thrill of traveling 120 MPH on the German Autobahn. He also enjoyed the Picadilly Circus and other sights around London. But, Ross commented that his favorite sights were the Swedish women who "looked great." He mentioned that their customs were totally different even though there were signs of American culture in most places. Their natives listened to a lot of American rock, British Rock, and some of their own music. The people in Sweden were friendly, but in Germany some of them were rude because he did not know their language. Ross enjoyed his trip to Europe so much that he plans to return after his senior year.

How To Get Your Teacher Off The Subject

There comes a time when the everyday routine of classes begins to wear down even the most interested student. There are many things you can do to combat this boredom, but the one that requires the most skill is the art of getting your teacher off the subject.

To do this, you must first have a talkative teacher. For example, let's say you have Mrs. Bayer and you don't always find her discussions interesting. Think of a topic that you know interests her, such as horses or nutrition. Topics such as these will keep her talking for at least fifteen minutes.

If your teacher is a new parent, you can always ask them about their children. Mr. Snyder, or any other coach, can rather easily be persuaded to discuss his or her sport. If during Government, the topic fails to keep you awake, Mrs.Lindsay just loves to talk about current events. If you really become bored with geometry, ask Mr.Hewitt about his personal life. The usual response is a five minute lecture on how it is none of your business. Isn't that better than class?

TAKE A CHANCE

This interview is with Terry Lanning who started a football pot at the opening of the football season.

Q: What gave you the idea to start a football pot at school?
A: I participated in one at work and thought it was a good idea. Besides, it gives people a chance to win a little money.

Q: How does the pot work?
A? People pick who they think will win in the pro games and whoever gets the most right wins the dough.

Q: How much does it cost?
A: A dollar for every time you enter.

Q: And did you meet with much success?
A: Well, it didn't start out too well.Only 15 people got in the first one, but I expected it to increase once it got around.

Q: How did the strike affect it?
A: Well, nobody knows who'll win so they don't want to lose their dollars. I did a scab football pot and only one other person besides myself got in.

Q: When they stop striking, will you start another one?
A: I don't know. Maybe.

Stacey Stowell, Sophomore Trojanette and Superstar Girl nominee attended the Aloha Bowl.

Born to be a Dancer

Stacey Stowell was selected as a Superstar Girl nominee! Out of 600 dancers, Stacey was selected as one of the top forty-five participants! She was asked to participate in the Aloha Bowl in Hawaii and went! So ... during Christmas, Stacey was hitting the beach, waves, and basking in the sun. On Dec. 18, she flew overseas to the luxurious island of Oahu in Hawaii. Practicing with 200 other girls for eight hours a day was "hot" work. For the next nine days, she took many tours which included highlights of Honolulu, the state capital, the punchbowl, National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific, and the University of Hawaii's campus. She also cruised ten scenic miles up the coast to pearl harbor, and finally, a snorkeling excursion with a narrated tour of Hanauma.

Christmas was just as special as it is at home. She attended a Polynesian revue dinner and show on Christmas evening. It was a fun-filled adventure traveling to the islands of the South Pacific. Features included the knife dances, war chants, and flame twirlers. This revue reveals the ancient cultures of the Polynesian people.

That day, the big event finally approached. The "super-star" girls departed for the Aloha Stadium for the pre-game and half-time festivities. What a performance!

Soon, farewells had to be said, but the great memories linger on. After all of the excitement, Stacey said, "Just being there was a total blast! The people were absolutely great. I'll never forget those nine wonderful days of my life!"

"It was a lot of hard work but well worth the effort"

YY2BWED

Nicknames, slang terms, cute idioms and many more entertaining expressions have been seen on license plates lately. It seems as if the people of Andover have been hit hard with the sudden urge to display their own ideas on their plates. This fad began several months before school even started, but it has become impossible to ignore with all the students that now own one. Everywhere a person looks, it seems that there are more new and interesting slogans to be read on license plates. In fact, the fad is so widespread that it is difficult to find a car without one in any state.

Some proof that this craze has hit in all areas, not just Kansas, is the appearance of a new game show, on cable television. This new show, called "Bumper Stumpers," deals with the decoding of tricky personalized tags.

Of these personalized license plates there are many types. There is the most common kind which is registered at the Division of Vehicles in the Butler County Courthouse. There is also the sort that can be bought almost anywhere and is displayed on the front of the car for decoration. In addition there is the type displaying a sports team or a school logo, such as the familiar Andover Trojans.

Whatever the style of plate it is, these personalized items are notorious. One example of an original tag is "YY2BWED," WHICH SIMPLY STATES "Too wise to be wed." Of course, there are hundreds of others around that could be listed. A tag displayed by one of our own students states, "IO-DAD." "I will never pay for it. I will be owing my dad for my entire life," explains Paul Raehpour a senior. His car is understandibly a 1987 Buick Somerset.

Cars of all kinds are showing off their personalized tags. If these tags do nothing else worthwhile, they give a student something to look at while waiting to turn east onto Kellogg off of Rock Road. As any Andover resident knows, that light can last forever.

Andrea Finlason, junior, displays one of the newest fashions of the year, the bomber jacket.

FADS!!

Guess, Generra, Levi's and Forenza dominated Andover's well-clad students. Of course, there were those who generated their own style: scarves draped over clothing, the acid washed denim and the fun new shape of the bubble skirt. Hairstyles took on a new perspective this year. Lines and arrows were shaved on the sides of heads, while others were spiked or dyed different colors. Marnie Rountree, senior, willfully dyed the ends of her light blonde hair black. She said she did it because she "wanted to do something different." The over-all type of style for 1988 was sharp-looking, comfortable clothing that allowed movement.

Running Away With It

"Okay, today I'd like all of you to run the big loop: through Andover Heights, down Main, and past the Grade School. Then, I want you to use the crosswalk and get onto Andover Road. When you get to Central, make a right and run to 159th St. When you get there make another right. Keep on going until you get to 13th St.; make a right again. When you get to Main, you can go back to the school. But don't forget to check in with me before you leave. Now, let's go out there and stretch.:

Every runner looked exhausted just by thinking about the prospect that lay before them.

A new team member asks, "Uh, Mrs. B., just exactly how many miles is this?"

Without a blink of the eye, Mrs. B. replies, "Five."

Groans are heard throughout the room.

Ahhhhhhhhhh, a day in the life of a Cross Countrian. Well, if we think about it, these workouts couldn't have been that bad, I mean, just take a look at the score board; it's great!

The boys' team, which is highly competitive, placed well in all of their meets. In fact they received ninth place at state!

However, the girls only managed to have enough members to make a team once; capturing third place. But, even though running for your team is important, you have to do it for yourself too. This is exactly what Kim Kaplan did. She ran inthe regional race by herself to achieve a personal goal and succeeded.

Cross Country is indeed a team sport, however, one must deep down inside have a goal that they feel must be accomplished. Even though the practices are a little tough sometimes, it's worth it. Frank Hladik said, "It was fun, Mrs. B. is the greatest."

Andover Gridders Gave Their Best Effort

Andover gridders gave it their best shot under new head coach Mark Middlemist. Middlemist replaced Kelly Kiser as varsity coach this year. He had been head football coach for the past seven years at Claflin High School in Claflin, Ks., a small 2A high school in western Kansas. From start to finish their effort was nothing less than 100 percent. Moving to the upper division of the league proved to be very difficult for an inexperienced Trojan football team, but their pride and hard work gave them a never give up attitude. The coaching staff was pleased with the effort and the progress throughout the season."

Sparkle That Spirit

"Despite the problems our teams had, I think our squad did an excellent job in promoting spirit through cheering at games and pep assemblies. And we enjoyed ourselves in the process!" said Andrea Finlason, co-captain of the fall cheerleading squad.

The eleven member group started their season quite a bit sooner than expected. Early in July, they practiced between two and three hours each day in preparation for camp. The month quickly rolled by, and the girls headed up to Kansas State University to attend NCA Cheerleading Camp. They endured uncomfortable heat and difficult competition. But the squad never gave up despite injured bodies and hoarse voices. Throughout the four days, they accumulated three spirit sticks, various superior ribbons for different areas, and they were among the elite squads vying for a chance at national competition. The girls were also given the prestigious award, the spirit award, for having the closest and friendliest squad.

To begin their football season, another individual was chosen as cheerleader in order to even the group. Then all twelve practiced diligently. They put on two pep assemblies that included many difficult dances, stunts, and pyramids. The crowd was quite responsive, which was a nice change. The remainder of the season, the squad did an excellent job of cheering, jumping, and representing the school with pride. Heidi Shomacker, junior, attempts to ignite the crowd with spirit.

Fall Homecoming

In My Dreams

King Todd Queen Melissa

Fall Homecoming Week began by including the students through a variety of activities. Spirit Week involved crazy attire centering around Hick Day, Couples Day, Dress Up Day, and Blue and White Day. Members of the student body narrowed down the candidacy which brought about the eight nominees Todd Drake and Melissa Ewing, David Hull and Delane Caudell, John Peckham and Annette Weilert, and Trevor Wohlford and Jennifer Chism. A pep assembly was held Friday to stir up spirit for the evening's game.

Soon night fell, and the Homecoming Events began. Excitement was in the air as the four couples stood on the football field. Then the names were announced. A cheer rose from the crowd as King Todd Drake and Queen Melissa Ewing paraded to the front to be showered by gifts and congratulations from the cheerleaders. A hug was exchanged between the King and Queen, and the game began.

Although the Trojans lost to the Wellington Crusaders, spirits were not dampened, and the nights fun carried over to the Heavenly Homecoming Dance. With the Homecoming Theme "In My Dreams", by REO Speedwagon. Student Council spent much of the afternoon decorating the commons for the special event. Their efforts were successful as the angelic decorations, delicious delectables, and smiling faces set the perfect mood. For the first time, a semi-formal dress was required.

During the dance Queen Melissa was crowned, and she, King-Todd, and their royalty traditionally began their elite dance.

For many, Fall Homecoming was a wonderful evening full of warm memories that will be looked back on with fondness.

A new face, belonging to Susann Kinkead, has appeared on the volleyball bench. Susann Kinkead replaced Randy Watson as the head coach of the Lady Trojan Varsity Volleyball Team. Taking over as the new coach is always challenging, even if the former coach had a strong winning record. Coach Kinkead faced this task with the help of assistant coach Debbie Schrock, and the adjustments were made.

With only two seniors on the team and just a slightly greater number of juniors, the girls faced tough times. Encouragingly, this team defeated Circle, Clearwater, Winfield, Mulvane, Halstead, Eureka, and Fredonia in every match.

Finishing with a record of twelve wins and fifteen losses, the girls played at Sub-State but lost to Maize. Melissa Ewing, a senior, was named All-League while Angie Kennedy, also a senior, was given honorable mention.

There were eleven members on the junior varsity team as well as on the freshman team. Futuristically, the juniors returning next year will provide some experience. As Coach Kinkead remains and the number of players increases, the Lady Trojan Volleyball Team should continue to be strong.

The Domination Begins

"Medusa" Reigns Supreme in '87

Despite the fact that the ancient Trojans were long engaged in and ultimately the losers of the Trojan War, they did find time for games and contests. Chariot races, sword fights, marathons and other tests of endurance were performed for entertainment and prizes.

Considering that Andover High School chose, many years ago, to have a brave Trojan warrior as their mascot, it is only fitting that a competition similar to that of the Greeks be held. Adorned in the appropriate Trojan style dress, consisting of skirts, shields and swords, Andover students take to the field.

Before they take to the field though and like the original contests, Trojan Night involves much preparation. Class meetings which involve selection of participants such as gladiators, a class princess and runners begin the preparations.

The next step involves work sessions after school. Beginning in the first week, students spend hours after school working on floats and creating costumes and weapons necessary to the competition. Each item displays the colors chosen by each class. Class floats display replicas of a Greek god or goddess or mythological creature chosen to represent that particular class. The seniors chose black and green as their colors this year to go along with Medusa as their representative. The juniors chose red and silver to go along with Zeus, the sophomores chose Dionysis with purple and gold and freshmen chose Demeter with brown and orange.

Roundballers Burn Up The Court

The 1987-88 Trojan basketball season was marked with times of jubilation and triumph and times of frustration. With the Trojans starting the season league opener with a victory over Augusta things looked better, but with tough losses to such teams as Buhler the league champs the varsity team fell into occasional slumps intermingled with a few victories.

The 87-88 season also introduced a few new things for the Trojans. The first being the move from Chisolm Trail division II league to Division I which featured several larger schools which the team had not played in years past. There was a new face in the head coaches position, that of Donovan Regehr who coached Freshmen in 83-84; Junior Varsity 84-87, and then took the reigns for the 87-88 season. Coach Regehr commented that he "was fortunate to have a great coaching staff and excellent managers and statisticians to work with. The players were a super and competitive group of young men who worked very hard all year long and made the season a very enjoyable experience."

SHOOTING FOR SUCCESS

Despite the disappointing 0-21 record, the girls basketball team was nonetheless triumphant. Coach Koenigs commented "I really thought the girls worked hard to improve this year. We concentrated on the fundamentals which will be important in coming years. They hustled and always gave it their best shot."

The graduating seniors, Barb Sater and Melissa Ewing will be missed next year, but the promising talent of the underclassmen should bring a bright future to the girls basketball program at Andover. All of the girls should be proud of their efforts and keep the Trojan spirit.

CHEER SUPPORT

Preparing For A Winning Season

David Hull, senior, went to Mexico City, Mexico to compete in a wrestling tournament in July 1987. Other teams competing in this tournament were from California, Mexico, Ecuador, and Panama. David wrestled two different styles; Greco and freestyle; David wrestled five times, winning all of them to take first place. In freestyle, he took third place, wrestling seven times. In order to be able to go to Mexico, David wrestled in a qualifying tournament at Kapaun Mt. Karmel and placed in the top three.

Before going to Mexico City, David wrestled in the State Freestyle qualifier tournament and took first place. This victory gave him a spot on the Junior Olympics National Team which travelled to Cedar Falls, Iowa and wrestled July 16-18. David's comments about this summer were, "Mexico was fun, the people there were very nice. I learned a lot about wrestling and myself in the sport."

Another outstanding athlete who spent part of his summer wrestling is Todd Drake, also a senior. Todd also went to Northern Iowa University and wrestled in the Junior Nationals Tournament. There were 126 people in Todd's weight class which was 132 pounds. He had three wins and two losses to take 15th place. Todd also went to camp for one week at Fort Hayes University before going to Iowa. He commented, "It was tough but very fun." This experience prepared both Todd and David for yet another winning season.

On The Right Track

The track team was outstanding in all areas in 1988. While the girls struggled, more because of lack of personnel than lack of talent, the boys excelled in almost all areas. Among the most outstanding were, Melissa Ewing, senior, hurdles, Bill Martin and Scott Brummer juniors, Jason Stuart, junior and Trevor Wohlford, senior, 4 x 400 meter relay.

These students consistently medaled with several first place finishes.

The Trojans also dominated in many of the field events. Paul Raehpour, senior, set the school record in the shotput with a throw of 51'6", winning several first place medals. At the Eureka meet, Trevor Wohlford, senior, set a school high jump record with a height of 6'4". Trent Whiteside, sophomore, and Marc Glades, junior, medaled in the long jump and javelin respectively.

Of the season Coach Regehr said, "The track year was filled with many surprises both on and off the field. Many emotions were experienced by the athletes as well as the coaches, all the way from 'the thrill of victory' to the 'agony of defeat'."

Batting Up A Ball

For seemingly eons baseball in America has been coupled with mom's apple pie. It has also inspired music and created heroes. However, until recently, we have not been able to participate in this classic tradition.

To be frank, last year's baseball season was not as successful as some had hoped. Nonetheless, the experience and determination brought about a better team spirit. With their "practice season" completed, the team soared into the new season with high hopes. Improvements could be seen as the varsity team won their first and then second game.

The team's batting average jumped from .196 to around .300. Their homerun total nearly tripled from the previous season.

There are those on the team who feel there is still room for improvement. Jason Barnhart, junior, explains, "We have potential if we use it."

DANCING TO THE TOP

'87 Trojanettes Take State Championships '88

This has been an outstanding year for the Trojanettes! Their season started early in the summer of '87 when they attended the Superstar Drill Team Camp at Kansas University. While there, they brought home every possible award. These included a first place trophy for a Home Routine, a sweepstakes trophy for the highest average of 1's earned by each girl, an Award of Excellence of Precision Drill, and a Spirit Stick. Delane Caudell, Stacey Stowell, and Annette Weilert were selected as Superstar Girl Nominees. Annette became the Superstar Girl for a second year.

In February they ventured to Kansas City for state competition. With three routines they brought home awards including a Sweepstakes trophy, a Judge's Award, a plaque for Excellence in Presentation, a plaque for Excellence in Technique, and two choreography plaques. To prove their ability, they proudly brought home the "BEST-IN-CONTEST" trophy and took the title of "State Champions."

Throughout the year the Drill Team has entertained at AHS home football and basketball games, Wichita Wings games, Kansas State University, Hutchinson Semi-Finals Basketball Tournament, and the Wichita River Festival.

A STAR IS BORN

"Five, six, seven, eight," yells the instructor and legs to flying. A typical, everyday scene in the life of Annette Weilert. Dancing since the age of three, this four-year Trojanette's dedication has finally paid off.

In 1986,Annette was one of eight hundred pommers attending camp. This notable recognition automatically qualified her to travel to Hawaii and Ireland and perform as a member of the National Superstar Drill Team. The group's first stop was Honolulu, Hawaii, where they strutted their stuff in the Aloha Bowl. Overseas, after an eight day tour of Ireland and London, The Superstar Squad performed for the Mayor of Ireland in the lavish Lord Mayors of Irelands Ball and marched in The Saint Patrick's Day Parade down the streets of Dublin.

In 1987, as Annette was again selected a Superstar Girl. The Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade was her destination, along with four hundred other drill team squad officers. In New York, Annette and Stacey Moore underwent tedious eight hour practices each day for five days. Parade time finally came, and Annette and Stacey took part in performing at Herald Square on Broadway for National Television, and encountered feelings that they will cherish forever.

"What an experience! Being chosen at camp for two years in a row and performing in Hawaii, Ireland, and New York, was most memorable to me. The opportunity to be involved in culminating events with such GREAT people was fabulous. I'm still in awe!" Annette said.

"I am proud of our squad this year! We began the season knowing it would be a challenge. But we came together to far exceed everyone's expectations."

HE MOVERS AND SHAKERS

How many times have you de-osited 50¢ into the pop ma-hines? Did you ever stop to think ho provides them? Or how out Trojan Nite, Homecoming,
Class of the Year? Who orgazes these activities so that the udent body can enjoy them? e answer is Student Council.
Student Council has been ace at Andover since 1934. Durg this time, the class has proded the school with many ents including: SADD, the Fall
d Winter Homecoming dances,
rious assemblies, and Vanity
ir. Not only do they provide the hool with activities, but they so contribute to the communi-
. By having a Santa Stuff,
TUCO managed to raise $100 rough class participation for edy families during Christmas.
ey also raised $500.00 this ar to contribute to the Anthony iles liver fund.
This means that they some-
mes have to use their own time.
risti Wiggins is STUCO's liaison
th the Boarrd of Education. Her job is to go to all of the board meetings, report the events STUCO sponsors and support the student body.

Like Kristi, each member of Student Council has his own job or committee to attend to. Therefore they all have to work together. They also have a very structured schedule and follow it at all times.

STUCO works like a democracy in "practice." They hold business meetings in which they suggest new ideas and work on improving the old ones.

Despite STUCO's efforts, some tend to think that Student Council is a "laid back" class. However, after sitting in on business meetings and watching them prepare for an event such as Trojan Nite or Vanity Fair, one can see that they really do contribute to our school. STUCO members are the movers and shakers of our school.

Off The What?

Off The Wall Presents A Variety Of Acts

Once again the Spring concert had 'em "bouncin' off the walls." This was the fifth Off the Wall concert which Director Roy Wright said was established when the Spring concert began to take on a lighter style several years ago. "Most of the program is dedicated to material picked by the students. Primarily, the performers come from Concert Choir and Madrigals but no one is excluded from the chance to perform," Wright said, "Falling just after contest, the chance to unwind on lighter material is a fun release for the last concert."

Performances during the program varied from skits to a piano duet by Jill Pohlenz and Julie Underwood. Highlights of the evening included Makeisha Ponds as Oprah Winfrey and a performance of "16 Tons" by Karl Martens. A Rap was performed by John Peckham, Maury Tiller and Damon Blythe as "Run JMD" and Stacey Wescoat did a pantomine to Wierd Al's "Fat."

The Concert Choir performed several songs including, "Shut De Door", "Come Before the Lord" "Dixie" and "Whistle and I'll Come to Ye." Other highlights included a performance of "All at Once" by Andrea Finlason, a solo by Julie Jacobs and a barbershop quartet performance by "The Slopeheads" — John Peckham, Paul Raehpour, Ben Lawrence and Chris Margrave. The Madrigals also sang several songs which included "Tuxedo Junction" and "Smile." Matt Schmersey, Jason Wagle, Damon Blythe, and Chad Gilbert played their version of rocks "Bad to the Bone."

Nancy Dain, Jill Pohlenz and Kim Kaplan accompanied on the piano and Colleen Loeffler and Michelle Smoots handled curtains and sound. Lights were handled by Carrie Swartz who Mr. Wright said did the "best job ever." Patti Finlason and Student Council as well as many other students, also contributed to the production.

A Dramatic Effect . . .

This was a particularly productive year for speech and drama students. Under the careful direction of Mrs. Ramp, many I ratings were received at various competitions, including State. Most students not involved in forensics do not realize the hard work and dedication put forth by these young actors and actresses. For example, play practice is not only every day during class, but also after school and occasionally on weekends. Fundamentals like lighting and make-up are considered very important aspects of the theater world. The students are responsible for props, lighting, make-up, and also costumes. Line memorization and learning correct gestures are only part of the main objectives of Mrs. Ramp's classes. Besides directing the productions, Mrs. Ramp also organizes and oversees the numerous details involved in a successful production. These talented students not only performed for the public, but also for the student body.

Born Again
Andover FCA . . .

A Prayer For Thursday Morning

"Trust in the Lord..."

You've got to be kidding, Lord. I can't take another day at that high school. There's too much out there for me to simply "trust" you. I've got tests, parents, practice, a girlfriend and a cranky car to cope with. How can I trust all that to you? I need something a little more tangible.

"...with all of your heart..."

And aren't we demanding? I mean, sure, you are God, but now you're asking me to even trust you with my heart's desires? You can't expect me to give in that easy. I can run my own life, thank you very much. Keep your hands off of what I hold dear and we'll get along just fine.

"...and don't lean on your own understanding."

Then what am I supposed to lean on? First it's my life, then my heart, now my understanding. You're taking over, for crying out loud. I can't take this alone, Lord. You know that. Give me a break.

"In all of your ways, acknowledge Him..."

In case you haven't noticed, Lord, I'm not perfect. How can I (or anyone else, for that matter) ever meet your standards? Oh, sure, I know, we can help each other out, but it's not worth it. I mean, all those other kids have so many problems, and screw up all the time, and don't want to give in to you. They're...

"...and He will make your paths straight."

...they're just like me. This is really scarey, but you're kinda making sense, Lord. I know I can't do all this stuff alone (I still think you're asking too much) but maybe if I got together with friends who feel (and mess up) just like I do, we could all work to live like you want us to. But how do I know it will work?

Proverbs 3:5-6

Because you wrote the book, that's how. You've got an answer for everything. OK, Lord, I can't live without you and I can't live for you on my own. Maybe this is how you're gonna help me survive out there. I'm going to F.C.A. this morning. Who knows, there might just be someone else out there who is still learning how to trust in you.

Taking The First Steps . . .

The Band Improves In Great Strides

Setting to music
The sounds of the symphony,
The bandmaster dynamically
Wields his baton.

Artists of all kinds
Strike up their playing pieces,
Hoping that their execution
Shows superiority.

As the recital ends,
Each musician may recall
A mistake or maybe even
A grand moment.

When it is over,
The final melody fades away
As the audience, too abruptly,
Begins to leave.

But those moments
Of great games and get togethers,
Backed up by the school band,
Won't ever disappear.

— poem by Andrea Clawson

"The booster club not only supported the band financially, but verbally as well."

— Deidre Beckloff

Celebrating a year marked by improvements, the band can be proud of its accomplishments. It took hard work and cooperation of all to make it successful. One source of help for the band was the parents. Together they formed a needed booster club to support the band. Their efforts from financial aid to just being there to cheer them on were appreciated making this a year of success for the band.

Voices In Harmony

The Choir learned nearly thirty pieces of music and presented their best through three performances. The first was the annual Christmas Concert where they not only sang traditional carols, but also attempted to tackle the infamous "Hallelujah Chorus." Their next performance was State Contest, held at Butler County Community College. The judges selected "Oh Whistle and I'll Come to Ye My Lad", "Praties", and "Ehre Sei Dir, Christe." The group was the only large ensemble to receive a 1 rating. Their final performance was participation in Off the Wall, where they experimented with show choir material.

The Madrigals spent much of the year performing for various businesses and organizations in the area. In addition to these concerts, they had five other major performances that included the Madrigal Feaste, a Christmas Concert, and Off the Wall. They also participated at Regionals, which was held at Chaparral. The group wearily trudged onto the bus on that particular morning, minus one member. They started off but had to make a quick stop to awaken their oversleeper, Kandi Conger. After pounding on her door for a few minutes and waking up her neighbors, the rain-soaked group began their long journey to Chaparral. There, they performed two pieces "Je Pleure", and "Walking on the Green Grass" and received outstanding ratings. These ratings automatically qualified them for state competition at Andover. Here, they again received excellent ratings, despite the brief bouts of coughing and sniffling after each song. Their judge found humor in these outbursts and asked Mr. Wright if his group had just returned from the infirmary.

Medieval Merriment

"In the beginning, the Madrigal Feaste was a new way for our Christmas program to be performed. As each feaste came around, we added something else to each performance until we have almost outgrown the commons, seating 338 and using 88 performers and servants," Mr. Wright said of this year's Madrigal Feaste.

The Feaste was held December 5 in the high school commons. The evening consisted of eleven fanfares that included fine food and entertainment. Royalty and guests began dining by lifting their glasses of wassail in a toast to the Christmas season. Next came the flaming soup which got a little out of hand and set off the school's fire alarm system. A new twist was added to the feaste in that the choir sang "Banquet Fugue", a lively song that ended with a belch from choir member Makeisha Ponds. Afterwards, the appetizer, salad, and main course were served.

Entertainment brought out many talents. A small ensemble sang, Erin Walker and Stacey Moore danced as the Madrigals sang "Nova, Nova, Ave Fix Et Ava", and the jesters performed Romeo and Juliet with help from the crowd.

Then the concert of the Madrigals began. The group sang twelve Renaissance pieces ranging from the popular "Deck the Halls", to the delicate "Conventry Carol". Amy Shurtz and Michelle Landrum accompanied the group playing their flutes in "Wexford Carol".

After the concert and dessert, the madrigals sang "What Perfume This?", "Joy to the World", and "Away in the Manger". Then the lights were dimmed, and the group grasped hands and traditionally ended the evening with "Silent Night".

I Want To Know . . .

Prom 1988 was different from any other in recent years at Andover High School. This year we had a live band called The Catch. The majority of the music played consisted of songs by The Cure, Depesche Mode, and The Smiths. Although there were some complaints, many people thought that it was a welcome change from the normal disc jockey. The prom was held at the Indian Center, which is known for its vast area to decorate. However, the general consensus was that the class of '89 did an excellent job with the decorations. The tables were decorated with silver stars and real flowers in silver vases. There were arches of white and silver balloons enclosing the dance floor and there were two red balloon hearts hanging from the ceiling.

The evening was highlighted by the announcing of the prom King and Queen. The candidates were called to line up and stand facing the crowd; they were: Jim Clements, John Peckham, Paul Raehpour, Trevor Wohlford, Ronda Arbuckle, Tracy McElroy, Heather McMillin, and Lori Schultz. The prom King and Queen were Trevor Wohlford and Lori Schultz.

Many of the speeches and performances were given by graduating seniors including a performance of "Graduation Day" by the Senior Madrigal Women and "Love Can Never Say Goodbye" by the Senior Madrigals.

Salutatorian Terry Lanning and Valedictorian Clinton Wolf gave inspiring speeches and Melissa Ewing and Kelli Martin read their original poem "The Class With Class."

Class spokespersons, Jim Clements, Heather McMillin and Jason Vanlandingham gave emotional addresses to their peers. Board President Timothy Clapp presented the diplomas.

Dr. Singer acted as Master of Ceremonies with piano accompaniment provided by Nancy Dain and Vonnie Hodges.

Stacey Moore and Greg Williams acted as ushers. A reception followed in the commons.

Seniors Prepare For A New Beginning

SENIORITIS STRIKES AGAIN

Remember the note the school used to send home that warned parents about the epidemic called Spring Fever? It seemed that as soon as the wind began blowing, the rain started falling and the air began warming, the teachers expected rowdiness among the students. Whether or not the changing weather or the teachers assumptions caused this dilema, no one has pinpointed. The fact is, it happens every year.

The "fever" has no real definition, it is just an understood concept — like the blues. The only way to understand it is to experience it. One manifestation of Spring Fever is "senioritis." Senioritis once again reared its ugly head, striking the class of '88.

Beginning with Trojan Nite and ending with graduation — the class of '88 "felt the power." Ordering announcements, college applications, ACT/SAT tests and other responsiblities swirled by as senior heads became filled with dreams of graduation. Concentration became difficult as the countdown began to a new life, new friends and memories.

1988: "THE CLASS WITH CLASS"

Now here's a little story we have to tell
About a class people thought they knew well.
they laughed at us and called us "mean".
Such a sorry class AHS had never seen.
We set out to prove them wrong,
To build a class that we knew was strong.
Four years of laughter and plenty of pain —
We've been through it all: sunshine, snow, and rain.
From start to finish it's been great,
We're proud to be a part of the class of '88.

It started way back in '84
As 132 Freshmen bounded through the AHS door.
We made it through English with Bayer and Chase —
The upper classmen insisted on putting us in our place.
State Football Champs we were that year,
Led by Couch Kiser, they displayed no fear.
New Coach Watson believed volleyball could be great.
He proved himself been he took them to State.
It was the year of break dancing and the gloved one, Mike,
And everyone chanted Eddie Murphy's famous line, "psyche"!
To the class of '85 we bid adieu,
People still had doubts about us, this we knew.

Our Sophomore year was colored pink and green.
Although it poured on Trojan Nite, '88 was "getting mean".
The '89 babies came from across the street.
Finally, here was someone that we could beat.
We met J. Harvey Koehn face to face,
And America witnessed tragedy in space.
We welcomed a new principal by the name of Jerry,
And our new superintendent's name was Harry.
People were still unsure if we would succeed,
To worry, we knew, there was no need.
We watched the Seniors go "over the wall".
We would come back stronger than ever in the fall.

Although we lost Trojan Nite in red and gold,
We knew we weren't as hopeless as we had once been told.
It was our first year to attend the big prom,
The photographers made the backdrop a bomb,
It was the year of the "spooes" and the "love connection",
And the class of '87 thought they were near perfection.
The Seniors proved they were "simple" indeed,
For writing on the sky light — there was no need.
To the class of '87 we said adios.
Our time to dominate was getting close.

The domination began when we came back.
We ruled Trojan Nite in green and black.
Our football team lost, but we were proud —
The Senior parents were always cheering in the crowd.
We've turned some heads since '84,
And now people know that we're worth more.
Through tests, assignments, and papers galore,
We've proved that our minds are ones that can soar.
We've been here four years, now it's time to go.
We've helped each other through both good times and low.
We're all getting ready, so we say with a sigh,
"To the class of '88, we love you, good-bye."

Junior Cruisers

Juniors are fiercely possessive the cars they drive because "We rather drive from the front wh than the back seat," as Kristy Ro commented. Driving an automob gives a junior the freedom to trav to and from work and, yes, ev school!

The most common car being d ven by juniors is the 1960's Fo Mustang. Some have decided drive different cars with styles their own. Ross DeVore drives classy Cadillac Eldorado convertib and Nancy Mills owns a charmi 1971 VW Bug. Junior Jay Evans h the title to two vehicles, a 1971 MG and a 1984 S-15 Chevy Sierra.

"The Juniors," one senior sai "have the best cars in the school Although we didn't win Trojan Nit we take first in "automobile."

Michelle Smoots, junior, is gleefully preparing her 1968 Corvette to take on the malicious after-school traffic flow in the parking lot. Many speed demons and impatient students cause near heart failure or nervous breakdowns with accidents or near-misses. Is taking the chance by driving your car worth it? Junior Matt King yelped a definite "Yes!!"

The Junior Rap

We are the Juniors and we're BAD as can be.

We'll keep you up and jammin' on your feet.

You know we're the BEST, and you know we're HOT.

The class of '89 is truly tops.

WE ain't just talking big, this ain't no jive.

Be glad if after this year you're still alive!

Our thinkers are FAST, and our athletes STRONG.

That's right, we're so fine. Don't get me wrong.

Our stuco folks are swift, and our sponsors really try.

And if you don't like it, you can say goodbye

WELL that's about all I've got to say.

Don't worry about it freshmen, you can try some other day.

Cause you can push, you can try, you can fight with all your might,

But it's the CLASS OF '89 that is really outa sight!

TOGETHER FROM THE START...

Andover and The Andover State Bank.
We started together when the City of Andover was little more than a wheatfield.

We have grown together from the start.
For more than 70 years, Andover State has played an integral role in the progress of our community. Through good times and bad times, the people of Andover have always counted on our stability and support.

The Andover State Bank is proud to be part of Andover.
Our pride is rooted in our bank, our community and our people. For over three generations we have all worked together to make Andover grow and prosper.

Andover and The Andover State Bank.
Together from the start.
